Nurses Reception—Visits Rose Garden in Marblehead, Mass.—Recent Guests at Herman Fuller's.

Duke Thompson, formerly of this place, completed a three years course in nursing, in a sanatorium in Brookline, Mass. On the evening of July 4th he gave a reception for the nurses in the institution, at his rooms on Commonwealth Ave., Boston. All decorations and favors were red, white, and blue. There was a caterer and two helpers in attendance. The evening's entertainment consisted of readings and music. There were two readers who gave several selections, five trained singers, baritone, tenor, and three women and three pianists, and a violinist, besides a large chorus of singers. Duke's sister, Mrs. Wilson, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Bachelor were social hostesses. Refreshments were ice cream, cake, punch, ladies' fingers, chocolates, and mixed candies. There were thirty-five nurses present. He has formed many pleasant friendships at the sanatorium and many regrets were expressed that he is leaving them. His sister, Mrs. A. C. Jackson, and his mother, Mrs. E. J. Thompson, both of this place, were present at the reception.

Mrs. A. C. Jackson and Mrs. E. J. Thompson spent the last week in Boston and Brookline, Mass., visited the celebrated rose garden at Marblehead, owned by Mrs. Foote. This garden covers one acre of all the beautiful roses known to florists. The outstanding feature of this garden is that it is not a commercial one. No roses or shrubs are sold, the garden is kept for the good of humanity. The sick and poor may visit it, walk in its paths, which seem like a paradise, and drink in the beauty of it, all free of charge. After going through the garden, they went to the beaches, Lynn and Revere Beach, both of which seemed much alive with pleasure seekers, motored through many towns, had an interview with Melville Dunham and wife. They both say that it was through no effort of theirs that they came before the public so rapidly, it was Henry Ford and the newspapers.

Special Town Meeting in Waterford

Pursuant to a call issued by the selectmen, a special town meeting was held here, recently, to see if the town would vote to make repairs on a certain piece of highway which had been in disrepair for more than half a century and appropriate a sum of money therefor, also to see if the town would vote to discontinue this same highway.

It was voted almost unanimously at the start not to make any repairs on this road, or appropriate any money. It developed during the meeting, however, that upon the representation of one of the members of the board of selectmen, (who, by the way, would be the sole beneficiary, providing the repairs were made), that the expense of the repairs would be nominal, say $150 or $200. Authority was given him by the board to proceed with the work, it being understood at that time that he (the beneficiary) would be liable for the expense to the extent of $75 or practically one-half the cost. While it is possible that the selectmen had a legal right to give this authority, they certainly had no moral right, as a vote of the town could not be secured to do so. When this meeting was opened, therefore, the repairs have been completed and the bill therefor presented to the town for payment, not for $150 or $200 but for about twice the larger amount, with no mention of a rebate, as that portion of the transaction had evidently been repudiated.

The net result of this agitation is a section of highway in town which is discontinued by vote, is fitted for automobile traffic from which the town can derive no benefit whatever, at an expense of several hundred dollars that one man may be enabled to market pulpwood with comparative ease. If it is justice then I have a decidedly wrong conception of the town's financial policy, with the interests of the town always in mind, which is generally supposed to be the policy of those officials having charge of the financial matters, appears to have been completely ignored in this transaction.

CASCO

Van Rensselaer Edwards Dead

Mr. Van Rensselaer Edwards passed away at his home in Casco village, Monday morning, July 4, at 3 o'clock. His death, although long expected, came as a shock to his many relatives and friends as his patience and endurance during the effects of a cancer on his head and neck made him feel that he was immune from being beyond suffering. After the sorrow of his loss was passed on one could wish "Uncle Sam" had taken him for a short time. Mr. Edwards' ability to do work and remain about the house was something inconceivable as he was confined to his bed only two days. He will be greatly missed as a familiar person about the village; his love of the horses he drove and the dogs he always owned made him a man of nature's own gift and his honesty among his fellowmen was above reproach.

Mr. Edwards was born in Otisfield, Oct. 22, 1854, the son of Washington Edwards and Abigail Edwards (cousins). He was married to Anna A. Brackett of Naples, March 26, 1875 and located on Leach Hill, Casco, and later at Casco village. He resided in a beautiful home and spent his spare time on a farm he owned near the village.

He was a member of the United Baptist church of Oak's Mills and with that became extinct attended the Union Church of Casco, where the funeral services were held, Wednesday, July 6, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with Rev. Irving Kemp officiating, preaching from the text, III Timothy 4th Chapter and emphasizing endurance, truth, course and crown.

The music was furnished by Mrs. Iva Gay, vocalist, and the floral tributes were many and beautiful. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Edwards, a daughter, Mrs. Elwood Thorne of Casco village, an adopted daughter, Mrs. Roscoe Mayberry of Naples Hill, and several cousins, one being, Charles H. Edwards of Casco village. Many other relatives from a distance and a host of friends were in attendance. He was interred in Lakeside Cemetery, Casco.

BOLSTER'S MILLS

Mrs. Emma Morey Bolster Dead

Mrs. Emma Morey Bolster, wife of Fred A. Bolster, passed to the higher life Saturday, July 2nd, after an illness of many weeks, at her home in Bolster's Mills. She was a kind neighbor and friend to all and will be much missed in the church and Grange to which she belonged. A very willing worker when her health would permit. She leaves, to mourn their loss, her husband and two daughters, Mrs. Isabelle French of Norway, Mrs. Elizabeth French of Bolster's Mills, and a foster daughter, Mrs. Stella Garrett, of Portland, besides a host of friends and neighbors who loved her so dearly.

The services were conducted by Rev. Stanley Carney of Gorham, who sang so sweetly, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." The floral tributes were many and very beautiful, silent reminder of the esteem held by relatives and friends.
